

EUGENE W. BARR

Partner
Royston Razor
Houston, Texas

Eugene W. Barr works out of Royston Rayzor's Galveston and Houston offices, concentrating his practice on litigation and transactional matters with a focus on maritime/transportation and construction law.

Mr. Barr's experience includes commercial disputes, personal injury/wrongful death, property damage and construction defect, maritime liens and vessel arrest/property attachment actions, cargo, shipboard investigations, vessel collisions/allisions, spills of oil/hazardous materials, and criminal defense of vessel owners, managers, and crewmembers.

In addition to handling matters in Texas state and federal courts, as well as arbitrations before the Society of Maritime Arbitrators (SMA), American Arbitration Association (AAA), and other domestic and international arbitral bodies, Mr. Barr assists clients with administrative proceedings before the United States Coast Guard, the National Transportation Safety Board, the National Pollution Fund Center, and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Mr. Barr also regularly counsels clients regarding both first-party and third-party insurance coverage matters. On the transactional side, Mr. Barr assists clients with negotiation and drafting of various agreements, including construction, purchase, and sale; time, voyage and bareboat charterparties; master services agreements; terms and conditions; and indemnity/risk-shifting and insurance contractual provisions.
